

Supplier of cable trays for computer rooms and base stations

AI Overview

Top suppliers for cable trays in data centers and base stations include Basor Electric, OBO, Primus Cable, Snake Tray, and New Tech Cabling, offering solutions for fiber, power, and data cabling. Basor Electric provides Basorfil cable management systems ideal for data centers, telecommunication rooms, and tenant areas. Their products support UTP, fiber optic, video, alarm, and power cables, with flexible on-site adjustments for turns, tees, rises, and drops. Basor's cable ladder runways and fiber-optic management systems ensure physical protection, bend radius control, and compliance with UL 94 V-0 standards, making them suitable for mission-critical environments. OBO offers a wide range of cable trays, mesh trays, and cable ladders for computer centers. Their solutions are designed to handle both individual cable routing and complex bundles, including heavy energy cables and light plastic cables. OBO emphasizes tidy, fault-free installations with staged supply of data and power cables, ensuring reliable and safe cable management in modern data centers. Primus Cable provides Wire Basket Tray Systems, which are highly configurable for data closets, high-density data centers, and enterprise installations. Their trays feature rigid, corrosion-resistant construction, extensive tray sizes, splicing accessories, and support structures. These systems simplify maintenance, protect network cabling, and allow for cost-effective extensions. Snake Tray specializes in modular cable management systems for data centers, including Mega Snake and Snake Canyon solutions. Their trays are strong yet flexible, preconfigured with turns, tees, and crossings, and can be suspended, attached to cabinets, or free-standing. Snake Tray also integrates with access floors and offers power and data distribution modules, making installation fa...
